River bugging is a more recent version of white water rafting, the extreme sport which became popular in the 1970s. A bug is an air-filled chair that you sit on in a river. The river flows very fast over big rocks. There are no paddles. You guide the bug using only your hands and feet.

- All safety instructions are given by our staff before you begin.
- You must be in good health and able to swim well.
- Thick gloves, a helmet, a lifejacket and short flippers are provided. You supply your own swimsuit and towel.
- Under-18s must have an adult present. Not suitable for children below the age of 16.
- Half-day costs £50 per person.
