Once upon a time, there lived a wise king. He was the most intelligent person in the world, but no one knew the source of his wisdom. He was shy and introverted. One day, the king's servant found out his ruler's secret. Every day the king received a plate with a mysterious dish. It turned out to be the meat from a white snake. After eating it, the king was able to understand the speech of animals. He knew secrets that other people didn't know.
The servant wanted to be as clever as his king, he took a bite of the meat and, at once, the servant understood the animals' language. One day the queen lost her most splendid ring while she was walking in the royal garden and she accused the servant of stealing it. He had a few hours to prove he wasn't guilty. He knew he was loyal to the king. He didn't know what to do. In the evening, while he was sitting by the pond, he heard a duck talking about having something in its throat. The servant took the duck to the kitchen and asked the king's cook to kill it and prepare dinner using its meat. The cook didn't know what to do. Finally, he agreed. When the cook was making dinner, he found the queen's ring in the duck's throat. The servant proved his innocence and he was set free. The king gave him a horse and money for travelling.
